EXCITING RUNAWAY.

W. H. Pollett's Horse Makes a Clean Sweep of West Second.

George W. Pollett was driving down Second this morning when the shafts became detached from his spring wagon.

The horse started to run, Mr. Pollett being pulled off the seat by the lines.

With the shafts attached the horse went sailing Westward, sweeping the street cleaner than it has been all winter, and rounding up on William Dinger's dray, standing in front of G. H. Heiser's Grocery, breaking several draypins and coming within an ace of catching Mr. Dinger.

In the hasty stop the horse and shafts made a scattering of several barrels of potatoes that were on Mr. Heiser's sidewalk.

Fortunately no one was hurt.

The Big Railways Pay Kentucky Taxes By Deposits in Bank.

Yesterday Attorney of the various railway corporations that pay taxes to the state of Kentucky met at Frankfort to formulate a plan for paying over the money for the present year, now or soon to become due.

Ordinarily these monies are paid direct to the Auditor; but as there is now a second "claimant" for that office, it was decided to deposit the money in the State National Bank, which is a State Depository, taking receipts from the Bank.

There it will likely remain until the controversy is settled.

The payment of railway taxes in Kentucky is a very important matter; for the friendliness of the Kentucky Legislature for "corporations" is so intense that it has made a law imposing a penalty of 10% flat, 10% interest and $50 per day for every day that their taxes remain unpaid after thirty days tax time.

In the meantime the railway Attorney will file an interpleader in the Franklin Fiscal Court, making Auditor Sweeney and so-called Auditor Coulter and the two Treasurers parties to the suit.

The latter action will probably be taken today.

The Man With a Warrant Goes Wherever He Lists.

New Orleans Times Democrat.

"A very interesting fact of modern life that seems to have escaped attention," remarked a New Orleans lawyer the other day, "is that the world has wiped its last city of refuge off the map. There is no longer any spot on the globe where our fugitives from justice are safe from extradition. When I first began to practise law an American criminal of retiring disposition had a wide range of choice in the matter of foreign residence, Spain, Turkey, Algiers, Japan, Holland, Chile, Ecuador, the Philippines, Cuba and all of Central America, except British Honduras, guaranteed security to ascertained bands of fugitives, from murderers down, and the list of refuges open to simple embezzlers was very much larger. For years, you remember, every runaway bank cashier made a bee line for Canada, and the thing got to be a standing joke, like the mother-in-law gag and the merry quips about plumbers. Nevertheless, the circle kept steadily contracting, and one by one the different countries entered into mutual treaties and put up the bars, so the American crook who wanted a chance of air began to find himself in the position of Dick Swiveller, when he checked off the London streets he couldn't traverse without meeting creditors. It was mighty hard work to figure out a safe itinerary. Canada hung tenaciously to the tourist trade, but at last she passed a law against bringing stolen property into the Dominion that practically excluded the fitting banker. Japan was one of the last of the distant powers to adopt a treaty covering what are called 'crimes against property,' and the new proviso was a severe blow to fumbling gentlemen in delicate health. It robbed them of the balmy climate of Yokohama."

"Eventually things simmered down to Central America, and then by process of elimination to Spanish Honduras. That was the final stronghold of the fugitive, but in 1898 the Congress of the Nation approved a new treaty clause, containing the usual extradition provisions. So, as I said before, there is now no city of refuge on the face of the earth. The man with a warrant goes wherever he lists."

NARROW ESCAPE.

Young Miss Came Very Near Meeting a Horrible Death.

Yesterday at noon about a dozen children were playing on the L. and N. tracks near the Bonnycastle.

At the same hour the out-going train was being made up, necessitating a great deal of switching by the engine.

As the train, in charge of Engineer Sibley, was approaching, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Deming, running along the track, got her foot fastened between the main and guard rails, holding her fast.

Her perilous position was fortunately seen by the men, who with al speed stopped the train, the engine being within six feet of Miss Deming.

It was indeed a narrow escape for her from a very serious injury.

MORE EVIDENCE.

Some Startling Developments in the Goebel Assassination Case at Frankfort, Ky.

RUOMS OF CONFESSIONS BEING MADE

W. H. Culton in Conference With the Attorneys for the Prosecution For Over Two Hours.

Henry E. Yostey, the Auditor's Clerk, and Last Man Arrested, Also Talks to One of the Attorneys for the Prosecution.

Frankfort, Ky., March 28.—There have been some startling developments in the Goebel assassination case. W. H. Culton, who had been awaiting trial, went to the circuit court, where he was in conference with the attorneys for the prosecution for over two hours. He was accompanied by his son-in-law, E. H. Hogan, who also sat in the courtroom. It is reported at the time that Culton had made a full confession, giving complete details of the assassination, but later it developed that the information was not given in the same character as at first reported.

Culton's friends who are in his confidence state that his statement was not in the nature of a confession, but they admit that he gave the prosecution the names of persons whom he believed had not yet been arrested and whose names had not been mentioned in the indictment. It is inferred, was more against others alleged to be in the conspiracy than against himself. The conference between Culton and the attorneys took place in the room of Col. C. Campbell, where there were present both Mr. Cullen and Mr. Campbell, Commonwealth Attorney Polsgrove, Rev. Mr. Culton, father of the prisoner, and E. H. Hogan, a brother-in-law.

While in the room of Henry E. Yostey, the auditor's clerk, who was arrested at noon and locked up in jail, charged with being an accessory, sent for Col. Campbell, and the latter visited the jail and was close with him for a time. Yostey, when he was arrested, told the officers that the appointment had promised not to arrest him, and complained that that side had broken faith with him. It is not known what took place at the interview between Yostey and Campbell, but it is reported that Yostey made a statement to the effect that he would make a public statement, which the prosecution refused to let him do.

The democratic military will be retained here until the April term of circuit court, which begins Monday, and which will be adjourned to next spring to trial.

The Young's arrest, followed by the alleged confessions of him and Culton, caused another flutter of excitement in both political parties locally, and Beckman decided that it was best to keep the troops here.

Capt. John Davis, who was allowed bail, is still locked up in jail, having failed to secure bondsman acceptable to the court. It was late in the afternoon, however, when the bail money was taken up, and it is understood that acceptable bond will be available for him.

ANOTHER WAR IMMINENT.

Tension Very Acute Between Russia and Turkey, the latter Supported By Germany.

London, March 28.—The Standard gives double-headed prominence to the following special dispatch from Odessa:

"There can be no longer any doubt as to the object of the warlike preparations now being completed in Soviet Russia. Not only has the Red Army been kept mobilized for active service. The Black sea squadron, with transports, is held in instant readiness.

"The tension in the relations between Sozieting and Turkey now reaches a point where it may become very acute. The position is looked upon with the gravest apprehension.

"If the Ottoman government, supported by Germany, should prove stubbornly intrusted to the war, it is to be expected that demands in Asia Minor, serious complications must inevitably ensue. The Russian garrisons in the Caucasus and along the Armenian frontier have been increased fourfold and equipped for active service."

PREMATURE EXPLOSION.

One Man Killed and Two Probably Fatally Injured in a Quarry Near Waterloo, N. J.

New York, March 28.—One man was killed and two probably fatally injured by the premature explosion of a bomb in Allen & Russek's quarry near Waterloo, N. J. George Lord, the foreman of the quarry, was killed; Frederick Mooney and Emil Lozier, laborers, were so seriously hurt that it is believed both will die.

The three men were at work setting a charge of dynamite. Everything had been made ready for the blast and all the others withdrew. It is believed that the explosion occurred through the adjustment of the firing cap, as the body of the bomb had hardly got a safe distance away when there was a report, a great cloud of dust and splintered rock, and the three victims were seen lying on the ground.

BOERS GOOD LUCK

HAS PROBABLY REACHED KROONSTAD

Lord Roberts' Advance Toward Pretoria May Be Delayed for Several Months or Longer.

Boers Again Shelling Magekeng. According to Last Report—British Losses So Far Show Over 20,000—Latest War News.

London, March 28.—The Boers are having a little good luck, and are showing some again, as far as their military estimate of 40,000 men left by the British forces at Waterford to have crossed the Kimberley-Bloemfontein wagon road. Monday and to have headed for Jacobsohl with the intention of cutting the railway lines with them.

Commander Olivier appears to have gotten his 3,000 men and 22 miles of wagons into rugged country where he can make an easy rear-guard defense. Charles Williams, editor of the "Daily Mail," says the Boers are getting substantially. Commandant Olivier will have carried out the greatest feat of the war, seeing that he ran every chance of being ground between the upper millions of Lord Roberts' army and the bare stone of the broken British frontier.

He will have done it within 50 miles of Lord Roberts' main strength. Certainly it looked for week as though Lord Roberts held Olivier in the hollow of his hand, if Oliver gets through, he will be a menace relative to the former occupying the admiral to Mafeking. One of the entries is to the following effect:

"The president (Aguinaldo) desired the negotiations which took place during the interview with the American counsel of that branch colony. Both agreed that the president should confer with the admiral commanding the American squadron in Mafeking, and if he should accept his proposal, it is beneficial to the Philippines, he should be allowed to take part in the subsequent events."

The account says that Aguinaldo asked for the advice of the committee and the president should accompany the admiral. The advice was generally favorable to his going, as Aguinaldo insisted that it was dangerous to go to the Philippines "without a previous written agreement with the admiral, since it may happen that if he accepts his proposal, he may make him sign a document containing proposals highly prejudicial to the interests of the fatherland."

Continuing, he said that if he accepted such proposals, the act would be a traitor, while if he should refuse, it would break between the two is evident."

To avoid this dilemma he proposed that a committee should be sent to the admiral to intervene with the insurgents, if necessary, and to ascertain the intentions of the United States.

To this it was replied by members of the committee that "it is thoroughly agreed upon with the admiral that he is to go to the Philippines, since all the armament in the world needs to be used to stop him." It is to be hoped that he is convinced that the fleet can do nothing in the Philippines if it is not used in connection with the insurgents in carrying out their plan of war against the Spanish government.

They expressed the opinion that owing to Adm. Dewey's "degree of culture," he would not require the signing of any documents, but insisted that, if he should so insist, Aguinaldo could decline. In this connection the following extract is significant:

"There will be no better opportunity than the present for the expatriate forces to land on those islands and to arm themselves at the expense of the United States and the attainment of our legitimate aspirations against these very people. The Filipino people unprovided with arms will be the victims of the demands and exactions of the United States, but probably the Filipinos, through their own efforts, will oppose themselves to them and struggle for their independence."

Aguinaldo argued that Aguinaldo once in the Philippines, could arouse the masses to action against the Americans. He thought that the United States would grant independence to the Filipinos. The question as to whether Aguinaldo should go was put to a vote and the proposition was carried unanimously.

Among the documents is also a letter dated May 1, last, signed by the master-mind Sonnenchein, then in employ among the Filipinos. He says: "Up to Lieut. Gilmore's arrival we have been treated in most barbarous manner, starved, beaten, flogged, and forced to work in the mines, and most of us are nearly naked. The Spaniards have been treated even worse than we, being tortured in the stocks and starved."

The third section of the material forwarded to the rebels which were sent to the Philippines and which were regarded as encouraging to the insurgents. One of these is from J. V. Martin, of St. Louis, who asks for supplies to be sent to the county jail. The complaint included inanity, debasement and misappropriation of the funds of the bank.

An Old Soldier's Curse.

Carmarthen, March 27.—It is reported that a British column has been unable to advance from Van Wyk'sberg owing to the floods, which have been very heavy. The roads are quite impassable. It is also reported that the rebels are still gathered at Rofberg, waiting for the British troops to go farther north, so that they may raid Carmarthen.

Clements Meets No Opposition.

London, March 28.—The Daily Mail publishes the following from Faure-Smith, dated Tuesday, 28: "Gen. Clements' column occupied Jacinto, a town in the mountains, morning, amid great rejoicing and enthusiasm, and without opposition. The British troops were warmly cheered, and union jacks are now flying everywhere."

Information Concerning the Doings of the Philippine Committee Meetings in Hong Kong in 1898.

Filipino Version of Aguinaldo's Negotiations With Dewey Relative to the Former Accompanying the Admiral to Manila.

Washington, March 28.—The president has sent to the senate additional documents concerning the Philippine insurgents, consisting of papers captured by American troops, information concerning the Philippine committee in Hong Kong, relating to the treatment of prisoners, etc.

The president is continuing the meeting of the Philippine committee in Hong Kong is a transcript of the minutes of the proceedings of the committee held on February 24 and April 5, 1898. The report for April 5 contains a full account of Aguinaldo's negotiations with Adm. Dewey relative to the former accompanying the admiral to Manila. One of the entries is to the following effect:

RELIEF FOR GEN. OTS.

Washington, March 28.—Secretary Root took a long time in preparing in the administration of the Philippines by directing the creation of an entirely new military division, to be known as the "Division of the Pacific," embracing all of the Philippine islands, except Mindanao, which is to be divided into four military departments, as follows: The department of Northern Luzon, commanded by Gen. It is said that the war department is to be the war department of the navy, and that the chief of the navy will be the chief of the war department.

Steamboating was at its best in the '40s. It was no uncommon thing to see from fifteen to twenty steamboats leave Louisville every day—there being almost daily lines in the different trades.

A large number of log rafts left High Bridge in Kentucky river for the Lower Ohio. As they passed Frankfort they had no difficulty showing they were not going to妨 anybody, as it had been reported when they left their starting point.

Captain D. A. Woodward has been reinstated as master and pilot, and the steamer Captain Harry Swaney has been suspended for sixty days by order of Major S. R. Crumback, Supervisor of Inspector of Steam Vessels of Pittsburgh and Cincinnati. This ends the controversy to which is referred his share in the sinking of the steamboat Pacific, which met in collision on December 13, last, with the Charley Clark. The decision of the Supervising Inspector is final. Captain Swaney's suspension will date from April 2. He is the present master of the steamship Alice. The decision is a matter of much comment among steamboaters; the restoration of Captain Woodward's license and the suspension of Captain Swaney's being a matter that is hard to understand by those who have watched the case. To those, however, who have not watched the case the decision is regarded as something of a "shocker."

PRESERVE THE RECORD

THAT FRANKFORT MEETING!

Have Kentuckians Lost the Right to Peaceably Assemble?

ment of Kentucky is founded on our authority and instituted for our peace, safety and happiness and our protection of property, our own and theirs, as well as that of the stranger within our gates.

We urge on them our proxies in the General Assembly to heed that there is a peril hovering over all those things so dear to us and to them, and that calmness and prudence and wisdom need be invoked in order that truth and justice may prevail, and we exhort their suffering themselves to be led into the temptation of partisan pride or party predilection in the crisis which is upon us.

We beseech them to remember that their own just powers were loaned them by us at the polls, and that among those was the jurisdiction to decide judicially and by due process of law, and not otherwise, was then our express will, not their present political preference.

We implore them that they do not on slight technical pretexts nor flimsy nor of trivial causes hazard the subversion of that supreme law of the land, the will of the people.

We beg of them that they receive from the hands of our messengers and consider, and do not spurn or despise this, our earnest address, petition and remonstrance, and they by their considerate action protect, preserve and promote the safety, welfare and, above all, the honor of Kentucky committed to their keeping.

The very phraseology of these resolutions show their origin. They come down from the Magna Charta through the various channels that have brought freedom of speech, liberty of action and freedom of conscience to this generation. The language is somewhat archaic, but it is the language of our Bill of Rights, and, slightly modified, it may be found in the Magna Charta itself.

And is it treason to utter these sentiments? Is it treason for the people of Kentucky to petition their representatives? Is it treason for freedom-loving people to call the attention of the General Assembly to the peril hovering over privileges dear to our law-abiding fellow-citizens?

In our judgment the principles here declared cannot be declared too often; cannot too often be brought to the attention of members of the legislature, and especially members of the Legislature of Kentucky of this generation. The course of the Legislature for the past five years has been a consistent course of usurpation—a course in direct conflict with the restrictions of the Constitution, in open defiance of popular rights. The time will come when the resolutions of January 25th will be adopted as the opinion of the whole people. There will be no man to dispute either the wisdom of the words or the necessity of utterance.

More especially do we declare our right and authority, conferred on us by Almighty power, and not otherwise, of applying to those invested with the power of government, by either petition or remonstrance.

And there we present to them our brothers of Kentucky, our agents in the Legislature convened, that the Government
